Paola Martinez, daughter of Claudia and Ramiro (Latin American Missionaries), knew since age 15 that God was calling her to devote her life to the efforts of reaching ethnic groups with the least access to the gospel. Now, as a World Renewal Missionary, she is working with a church-planting team in Barcelona, Spain, focused on discipleship and leadership development in an area where peoples from the various countries around the Mediterranean come together. Geographically, politically and culturally speaking, this area is strategic to accelerating the advancement of the gospel through training leaders of all nations to the nations.

Evangelizing weekly in contact with over 150 nations

Equipping local leaders with simple, biblical, reproducible discipleship tools

Establishing missional, self-sustaining house churches

Creating relational highways across regional and international networks

Partnering with Christian organizations and local churches
